

Hill College
Vocational Nursing Program
Community Project

The student is required to participate in a community project in which he/she has chosen. The community project must be one that has already been established, and one in which the student will assist other nurses who are working the project.

Participation in the project must be approved by the director of the program before participating in the project.

The student must wear appropriate attire, which is suited for the project (Usually what the other nurses are wearing).

Only two students may participate in the same project.

This project must be completed by the graduation date. If the project is not completed by the graduation date, the student may fail the last clinical course or receive an "I" for a specific amount of time. After this specific amount of time, the student will then fail the last clinical course.

The student will be assigned a clinical day to use to complete the community project.

Examples of projects may include:

1. Various screening programs (blood pressure, blood sugar, etc.)
2. Walk-a-thons (example: American Heart Association)
(Note: Student must assist in the planning and organization of projects such as these, not just merely walk.)
3. School district projects.
4. "Shots for Tots" (student may not administer meds).
5. Projects designed for Senior citizens
6. Health fairs.

Keep an eye on your local newspaper for any activities or projects that may be scheduled.

Dear Community Project Sponsor:

The Hill College vocational nursing students are required to participate in a community project of their choice. This may be a project in the student's local community or elsewhere. Please sign below verifying that the student did participate in the project.

Thank you,

Hill College
